

Soraya Fallah is a lifelong Women and Human Rights activist, scholar, and a researcher of Kurdish origin, currently residing in the United States. She is board member and chair of Kurdish women Rights Committee, KNC-NA. She works extensively with local and International NGOs to promote human rights in the USA and throughout the world, specifically protecting the rights of ethnic minorities in the Middle East. Soraya has her M.A in International Relations and Law.

She delegated Kurdish women and One Million Signature campaign 's message for first time to UN in 2007. She is the chair and adviser of several other non-for-profit organizations, such as International Pen Kurdish sector, Northern America, Amnesty International, co-program director of UNAUSA, San Fernando , Society for Human Rights in Iran, One Million Signature, Change for Equality” , all working for the advancement of human rights and democracy especially for women and minority rights.

She chaired first international conference on Kurdish women for peace and Equality conducted by Kurdish National Congress of North America and several other conferences in Iraq and US.